

ED A LITTLE BOY. FIVE BOYS DIE BY POISON.

Run Over by a Car While Being Chased by a Conductor.

He Was Eight-Year-Old Charles Kaufmann, of 1210 First Ave.

In His Terror He Ran Under the Horse's Legs.

Charles Kaufmann, a schoolboy, eight years old, of 1210 First avenue, was run over and instantly killed at noon today by car No. 8, of the Second avenue line, at Fifty-eighth street and Second avenue.

The body was almost cut in two. It was picked up by Policeman Phillips, of the East Fifty-first street station, and two citizens, Frank Fallon, of 318 West Forty-ninth street, and George Weber, of 1078 Second avenue, and carried to the drug store of Sidney Faber at 1102 Second avenue.

An ambulance was summoned from Roosevelt Hospital, and the surgeon, Dr. Ward, viewed the body. The policeman asked him to remove the corpse to the East Fifty-first street police station. The surgeon refused to do so, saying it was not his duty. He then drove away.

An old grocery wagon was found, and the body was put in it and carried around to the East Fifty-first street station.

Thomas McCormack, forty-nine years old, of 1119 Second avenue, the driver of car No. 8, was arrested.

McCormack's story is as follows:

"I was going downtown about 12 o'clock on car No. 8. Near Fifty-eighth street the conductor ordered a car to be chasing a little schoolboy. The boy ran across the tracks and directly under my horse's legs. Before I could put on the brakes the boy was knocked down and run over."

The wheels of the car passed over the boy's chest and legs.

MAY END THE MINE STRIKE.

It Is Said Illinois Operators Promise to Attend a Conference.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—Substantially all of the officers and district Presidents of the United Mine-Workers of America, met today in the Grand Central Hotel. They opened with an executive session. An effort is being made by outsiders, it is understood, to have these officers declare in favor of a resumption of work at all mines in Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Central Illinois and certain other contiguous territory, provided operators in such territory, or some of them, consent to pay the price that is asked for mining.

TERMS AT CRIPPLE CREEK.

Trouble Between Miners and Operators Believed to Be Settled.

DENVER, Col., June 5.—The strike at Cripple Creek was settled at a late hour last night. The conference began at 9 o'clock. Gov. Waite announced to the operators that he was authorized to act for the miners, and consideration of the various points was immediately begun.

But one point caused serious complication, and that was the time allowed for luncheon. The miners demanded thirty minutes. They were allowed to pay for their time. The articles of agreement provide that the miners shall work eight hours a day, with twenty minutes for luncheon; that they be paid at the rate of $3 a day and that the mine owners, in employing men, shall not discriminate against either union or non-union men.

FREIGHT SERVICE STOPPED.

Ohio Central Railroad Badly Off for Fuel.

TOLEDO, O., June 5.—The Ohio Central Railroad discontinued its entire freight service today from lack of fuel, and within three days will have to stop passenger trains. The mine owners are preparing to burn wood. The Lake Shore road has laid off nine freight cars in three divisions, and is burning wood and oil in its freight locomotives.

LABOR UNIONS UP IN ARMS.

Threaten to Strike if Not Paid for Fuel.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 5.—The labor unions throughout Westchester County are in arms over the fact that non-resident workmen are to be employed in the building of the Home for Aged Women which is to be erected at Bedford. A year ago the Legislature appropriated $200,000 to build the home, and the contract has been awarded to a Syracuse firm, who will bring most of their workmen with them.

EVANSVILLE SHORT OF COAL.

Evansville, Ind., June 5.—The coal supply here is almost exhausted. The workmen here are now being let with wood. Suspension of the street-car service is threatened, and steam boats are laid up and many manufacturing industries are preparing to burn wood. The mine owners are preparing to burn wood. The Lake Shore road has laid off nine freight cars in three divisions, and is burning wood and oil in its freight locomotives.

STRIKE NEWS CONDENSED.

Striking miners from the Oswego, N. Y., mine, last night telegraphed to the mine owners that they were prepared to accept the terms offered by the mine owners.

The Sheriff of Williamson County, at Marion, Ill., last night telegraphed to the mine owners that he was prepared to accept the terms offered by the mine owners.

Miners were issued by the Pennsylvania State Department to 100 coal and iron policemen on the application of Howard White & Co., and other mine operators in the Clearfield region.

The Illinois Coalminers' Union at Elwood, Ill., for the largest number of the kind in the United States, which has been idle for several months, will be started up again by Eastern capitalists at once.

For entertainment of the group of the surf, the ball field and the ring road the 500,000 Edition and the Sporting Extra of The Evening World.

ROSEWIG TOOK POISON.

He Died Rather than Have His Wife Support Him Longer.

Was Ill, but Tried Hard to Find Something to Do.

Writhing in Agony, He Hid the Truth from His Helpmeet.

Dependent over ill-health and wounded in spirit because his faithful wife was compelled to support the family, Casper Rosewig, forty-three years old, a painter, of 314 West Forty-ninth street, ended his life by swallowing Paris green at his home this morning.

Rosewig, his wife and a bright, nine-year-old girl comprised the family. They lived in comparative comfort in the basement of the Forty-ninth street house.

For years Rosewig had suffered from rheumatism. He got a little better recently, and hopefully went out to find work, that his wife might be relieved of going out to service daily. But he found no employment.

"You know, dear, that it hurts me here," he said to his wife yesterday morning, placing his hand over his heart, "to see you toil while I can do nothing. I can't stand it. I must put an end to it all."

Mrs. Rosewig bade him be cheerful, saying she was strong and willing to work for the little family.

"Don't know that you would work if you were strong and could get something to do?" she said. "I can plenty to keep me supplied with food and shelter, so be happy."

Then Mrs. Rosewig went to her work, while her husband visited several shops in Hoboken and this city, returning home late in the evening, half dead with fatigue. He had found no work.

About 2 A. M. today Mrs. Rosewig was awakened by her husband's groans. She remembered that he had frequently threatened suicide. Indeed, four years ago, he had swallowed a small dose of Paris green.

"You have poisoned yourself," she cried, suspiciously, and when he told her that she was mistaken Mrs. Rosewig believed him.

"I am dying," he heard him whisper, "and I know that you will not be longer. Oh, God help me to bear the pain quietly to the end."

He was unable to do so. By this time, Mrs. Rosewig discovered too late the traces of green poison on her husband's tongue and in his cup, and she rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

ROSEWIG TOOK POISON.

He Died Rather than Have His Wife Support Him Longer.

Was Ill, but Tried Hard to Find Something to Do.

Writhing in Agony, He Hid the Truth from His Helpmeet.

Dependent over ill-health and wounded in spirit because his faithful wife was compelled to support the family, Casper Rosewig, forty-three years old, a painter, of 314 West Forty-ninth street, ended his life by swallowing Paris green at his home this morning.

Rosewig, his wife and a bright, nine-year-old girl comprised the family. They lived in comparative comfort in the basement of the Forty-ninth street house.

For years Rosewig had suffered from rheumatism. He got a little better recently, and hopefully went out to find work, that his wife might be relieved of going out to service daily. But he found no employment.

"You know, dear, that it hurts me here," he said to his wife yesterday morning, placing his hand over his heart, "to see you toil while I can do nothing. I can't stand it. I must put an end to it all."

Mrs. Rosewig bade him be cheerful, saying she was strong and willing to work for the little family.

"Don't know that you would work if you were strong and could get something to do?" she said. "I can plenty to keep me supplied with food and shelter, so be happy."

Then Mrs. Rosewig went to her work, while her husband visited several shops in Hoboken and this city, returning home late in the evening, half dead with fatigue. He had found no work.

About 2 A. M. today Mrs. Rosewig was awakened by her husband's groans. She remembered that he had frequently threatened suicide. Indeed, four years ago, he had swallowed a small dose of Paris green.

"You have poisoned yourself," she cried, suspiciously, and when he told her that she was mistaken Mrs. Rosewig believed him.

"I am dying," he heard him whisper, "and I know that you will not be longer. Oh, God help me to bear the pain quietly to the end."

He was unable to do so. By this time, Mrs. Rosewig discovered too late the traces of green poison on her husband's tongue and in his cup, and she rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.

"Minna," he called feebly to his wife, "Minna, kiss me good-by."

Thoroughly alarmed, Mrs. Rosewig rushed into the street and got a policeman to summon an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. But the surgeon arrived too late. Rosewig was dead.